Trail of Imagination and Curiosity

CCI have published their first Trail, developed with families and children in a Cambridge community for their local cemetery. This downloadable booklet can be printed out and made up at home. Offering playful suggestions for future visitors, the booklet draws on the children's own stories and ideas.

Further information and the link to print your own Trail are here >>>>

Commissioned by Cambridge Folk Museum for Friends of Mill Road Cemetery.

Re-Imagining reclaimed materials

The recent Open Day at Donarbon's MBT Centre was attended by over 2,000 people, despite the wind and rain. CCI offered families the opportunity to get creative with materials donated by businesses in the region.

Children and young people are the recyclers of the future, and we are always looking for new and innovative ways of encouraging them to do their bit for the environment. This project is certainly innovative and we believe it will make a real difference.

Julia Barrett, Director of Environment and Regulation, Cambridgeshire County Council

Traces from Creative Connections

Recent workshops in three Museums in Cambridgeshire highlighted for educators in the county how local history and objects can come alive when approached creatively.

I was surprised at the many different ways you can express yourself.....and the wonderful ideas that everyone came up with

Kettle's Yard Workshops for Educators in 2010/11

Led by CCI artists, these workshops take place in the gallery after it is closed to the public and use the current exhibition as the starting point for thinking, making, reflecting and questioning. Spaces are limited and our last series was sold out very quickly so reserve your places soon.

KETTLE'S YARD

Working with CCI

CCI is seeking to expand its network of creative facilitators. This network of associates are integral to the planning and delivery of CCI's innovative programme of creative projects and training, alongside the core staff team that includes the Director and Artistic Advisor. Members commit to meeting regularly to share practice and explore creative approaches to facilitation. A person specification can be found here >>>>

Pending news from a major funder, we also expect to be recruiting imminently for 4 crucial roles in Footprints, an area of CCI's work which focuses on developing communities through creative engagement in green spaces. There will be vacancies in the first year for 4 creative facilitators (2 artists and 2 educators). The first year of this three-year project will start in September 2010 and complete in August 2011.
